

Blackmans Bay – Salmon Well Boats

Mr GEORGE question to MINISTER for ENVIRONMENT and CLIMATE CHANGE

My question comes from a constituent from Blackmans Bay who regularly watches large salmon well boats moving up and down the Derwent Estuary. They want to know if these boats discharge the contaminated water, including faeces, disease treatments and antibiotic residue, directly back into the marine environment and, if so, what monitoring and reporting requirements apply to those discharges.