

Heart Disease Rates Among People Under 40 Years Old

Mr GARLAND question to MINSITER for HEALTH, MENTAL HEALTH and WELLBEING

My question comes from a resident in Latrobe. There is anecdotal evidence that there is a serious heart health issue emerging in younger people over the past decade. I have been prompted by a constituent who would like to know the number of young people, 40 years and younger, who have presented to emergency departments in Tasmanian hospitals over the past 10 years with heart-related problems or who have died with heart-related problems for each calendar year to date beginning in 2015? Can the Health minister also show the different presentation numbers comparing females and males and compare those aged 0 to 30 with those aged between 31 and 40 years old?
