

Greyhound Racing – Stand-Down Periods

Ms JOHNSTON question to MINISTER for RACING

My constituent asks in relation to the greyhound races on Thursday night where Jungle Boogie fell in race 4 and tumbled. My constituent asks: in the Northern Territory, any dog that falls in a race is required to have a compulsory stand-down period. Why is that not the case in Tasmania and will you look into that? Jungle Boogie raced again on Monday night, came dead last, and is clearly quite unwell from the race fall on Thursday.
